The shea pleasure of L'Occitane

If its legendary Ultra Rich Body Cream is too much for your sensitive skin, try French fragrance house L'Occitane's less weighty cousin. With the same nourishing body care benefits but with a lighter, whipped texture the Ultra Light Body Cream contains five per cent shea butter and can be used by the whole family. It's a winter wonder as it's perfect for dry and sensitive types.

Shea Butter Ultra Light Body Cream, £32, www.loccitane.com

We want 2022 to be glamorous in the way that 2020 and 2021 weren't. We're decidedly not 'in this and we are out of there'.

It's time to add some glamour the way that 2020 to the bare-faced look and embracing a world of full on slap. For eye make-up there is nothing more fabulous than a quad by Tom Ford. As the man himself puts it, "Bitter Peach surges with dark, skin gripping sensuality. Like the full-flavoured fruit at its most ripe, the scent is erotic by nature."

Stick with a tri-balm

Pressed for time? Always. So we turned to the Frances Prescott Tri-Balm Luxury Cleansing Stick Balm. Stocked at Liberty, this multi-purpose cleansing balm is a triple threat as it can be used to cleanse, exfoliate and moisturise all in one go. We love the blend of premium oils that work to deliver daily nourishment to the skin. As a makeup artist for fashion and film Frances Prescott was inspired to develop a single cult product.

Rethink your skincare regime

We spring clean our houses so why not our skincare regime? As we think about coming out of winter, it's an idea to think about a change of moisturiser. Mavala's night cream, Sleeping Mask 'Baby Skin' Radiance promises just that, the complexion of a newborn after the overnight application of the half cream, half mask. TREND ONE

Enzymatic exfoliators

Gone are the days when the only way to exfoliate your skin was with a gritty scrub. In recent years, we've seen plenty of chemical exfoliants that use AHAs (Alpha-Hydroxy Acids) to exfoliate. However, heads are now turning to the new exfoliator on the scrubbing block: enzymes. These are typically fruit enzymes that break down and remove dead skin cells. 'Specifically, enzymes in skincare are breaking down keratin proteins that hold dead skin cells together,' says dermatologist Dr Ala Ahmed (thepsychodermatologist.com). 'The dead skin cells are removed without affecting your skin's natural pH, maintaining the integrity of the skin barrier.' Another big positive of enzymatic exfoliators is their suitability for sensitive skin. Unlike chemical and physical exfoliants, which usually offer a deeper, harsher level of exfoliation, enzymatic exfoliators only touch the surface of the skin. 'This means they avoid disrupting the skin barrier and are therefore less likely to irritate,' adds Dr Ahmed.

Try the trend...

Toipa Sobio 3 Enzyme Face Peel (£19.99, loyalsharmacy.com) uses fruit enzymes to remove the keratinised epidermis without irritating skin. The result: less sebum, fewer blackheads, and smoother skin.

Frances Prescott Tri Balm Cleanser (£49, francesprescott.com) is formulated with botanical oils to melt away make-up along with enzymes to gently exfoliate and hyaluronic acid to lock in moisture.

Kat Burki pH+ Enzyme Essence (£100, net-a-porter.com) works to prevent breakouts and whilst supporting the skin's acid mantle to keep lipids and moisture locked in, and pollutants and toxins out.

THE HEALTHY NEW YOU

Frances Prescott Tri Balm Cleanser (£49, francesprescott.com) is formulated with botanical oils to melt away make-up along with enzymes to gently exfoliate and hyaluronic acid to lock in moisture.

Meet the luxury cleansing stick which will supercharge your whole skincare routine.

Cleanse, exfoliate and moisturise in one step with the iconic Tri-Balm. Formulated by experts, backed by science and grounded in nature, this triple action, multi-benefit skincare stick saves you time and space, while helping you achieve your best skin. The expert blend of natural wheatgerm, sweet almond and blackcurrant oils work together to completely remove end-of-day dirt and stubborn eye make-up, while pumpkin seed enzyme gently exfoliates to reveal radiant, soft skin that's squeaky clean without feeling parched.

We've road-tested this handy travel stick for a month and it's still going strong. Super simple to use and carry around without any spillage, we loved the easy roll-on application and how soft and smooth our skin felt after.

Scented with geranium and mandarin, you gently'll inhale the calming botanical blend and transform your everyday skincare routine into a relaxing ritual, or leave on clean skin for 10 minutes allowing Tri-Balm work its magic as a nourishing face mask. Naturally sourced retinol targets acne, while geranium oil helps to reduce the appearance of fine lines and hyaluronic acid plumps and moisturises, all in one stick. Waterless, cruelty-free, convenient and effective on all skin types.

Frances Prescott Skincare Tri-Balm is a cleansing stick that doesn't just cleanse away impurities and plump skin with nourishing moisture, it also comes with an in-built exfoliant thanks to the innovative ingredient ACB Pumpkin Enzyme.

It saves time and is packed full of skin-nourishing ingredients like hyaluronic acid, vitamin E and blackcurrant oil, the balm soothes, comforts and smooths your skin all in one easy step.

Tried & Tested by Deputy Editor, Natalie Corner: "This Tri-Balm by Frances Prescott Skincare is luxury in a stick. Having three different steps all rolled into one really does help when it comes to your routine. To me, it's the perfect travel cleanser because you know your getting gentle exfoliation, moisture and cleanse without having to switch up your products. The balm literally melts on your face, so I only prefer to use a touch of water to get it really creamy and then leave for a few minutes for a little mini-facial before wiping away with a warm cloth. Your skin is left feeling very radiant and nourished without feeling parched."

CREAM CLEANSER

We really love this innovative product. It comes in a sort of deodorants-style twist-up tube that you work into your skin directly. It says it can remove make-up, but we prefer to use it as the second part of the cleanse. Once applied, work it in to give skin a proper clean. You can then leave it on as an exfoliating mask. The reason it's called three in one is that it's so moisturising, you could leave it all day as your face oil. Genius.
